Obituary

Maurice Victor Fey, son of Ed and Evalin Fey, was born at Elwood, Indiana, January 13th, 1904, and died at his home, from accidental shooting, south of Inavale, Neb., January 5th, 1919, age 14 years, 11 months and 22 days.

At the age of five years he came with his parents to Webster County, Neb., where he grew up and attended the common schools, being exceptionally bright and quick to learn. He soon finished, passing the eighth grade and entering the Red Cloud High School, but last fall, feeling he was needed so badly at home, quit school and went home to help his father gather corn and feed cattle.

Mr. Fey also had a neighbor, Mr. Hicks employed at times to help with farm work, and even though he was an old man, he and Maurice became fast friends. Mr. Hicks lives in a cellar, a short distance from the Fey home, and it was here that Maurice had the accident which proved fatal.

About two o'clock in the afternoon he started to go home to look after the stock, his parents being away. Having his father's shot gun there for some reason or other, he attempted to lay the gun on a chair in front of him while putting on his gloves, but it being dark in the cellar, the gun caught on the edge of the chair, slipping off and the hammer striking as it dropped causing it to go off, and nearly the whole charge taking effect in the region of the left eye.

The doctor and parents were immediately called and he was removed to his own home, where he passed away about 7:30 the same day. All was done that could be done to save him but God had called and Maurice must go. Those who witnessed the shooting were Mr. Hicks and several other neighbors, who happened to be there at the time, most of whom were grown men.

Maurice was always jovial, jolly and full of fun, which won for him many friends among the old as well as the young. He was joined about three years ago and converted the United Brethren church near his home and was still a member at the time of his death. He was a good boy, obedient to his parents and always steady at work. One might think from the accident that he was a wild, bad boy, but not so.

Oh! how we will miss him, but we hope our loss is his eternal gain. He leaves a kind, affectionate, heart-broken father and mother, one brother, Rev. Harold E. Fey in school at Lincoln, Neb., three sisters, Miss Mildred, now attending Red Cloud high school; Lois and Little Evalin, also other relatives and a large circle of friends to mourn their loss.

The funeral service was held at the Mt. Pleasant U. B. church, January 9th, in the presence of a large assembly; conducted by the writer. Interment in Mt. Pleasant cemetery. May the God of Heaven comfort the hearts of the sorrowing ones in this hour of bereavement.

FERRY E. HENRY, Pastor.

U. S. Insurance

To the Soldiers and Sailors of America: Approximately four million officers and men of the Army and Navy are now insured with the United States Government for a grand total of almost thirty-seven billion dollars.

You owe it to yourself and to your family to hold onto Uncle Sam's insurance. It is the strongest, safest and cheapest life insurance ever written.

For your protection Uncle Sam has established the greatest life insurance company in the world—a company as mighty, as generous, and as democratic as the United States Government itself. Just as Uncle Sam protected you and your loved ones during the war, so he stands ready to continue this protection through the days of readjustment and peace.

The privilege of continuing your Government insurance is a valuable right given to you as part of the compensation for your heroic and triumphant services. If you permit the insurance to lapse, you lose that right, and you will never be able to regain it. But if you keep up your present insurance—by the regular payment of premiums—you will be able to change it into a Standard Government Policy without medical examination. Mean time you can keep up your present insurance at substantially the same low rate. The Government will write ordinary life insurance, twenty-payment life, endowment maturing at age 62, and other usual forms of insurance. This will be Government insurance—at Government rates. The United States Government—through the Bureau of War Risk Insurance of the Treasury Department—will safeguard you and your loved ones with the spirit and purpose of a Republic grateful to its gallant defenders. To avail yourself of this protection, you must keep up your present insurance. Carry back with you to civil life, as an aid and an asset, the continued insurance protection of the United States Government.

Held on to Uncle Sam's insurance.

Readjustment Congress

The big Atlantic City conference of business men in December is to be duplicated as nearly as possible for the benefit of the Western business man.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which called the Atlantic City conference, and the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, are promoting the Trans-Mississippi Readjustment Congress to be held in Omaha, Feb. 18 to 20.

This congress will chart the course of business in the west for 1919. Plans will be developed in group meetings of allied interests under the direction of the leading men in those lines. These plans will be reported to the main congress in the form of resolutions and will be welded into one constructive plan for the guidance of all lines of business in the west.

Among the speakers who have definitely promised to address the congress are: J. Ogden Armour of Chicago, David E. Houston, secretary of Agriculture; Harry A. Wheeler, president of the Chamber of Commerce of United States; Arthur Reynolds, Commercial Bank, Chicago; Frank Sisson, Guarantee Trust Co., New York.

Invitation committees are waiting personally on several other prominent speakers, including a national labor leader.

This will not be an ordinary convention. If the Atlantic City spirit of optimism prevails you will see steady business men, models of decorum in their home towns, stand on chairs and cheer the sentiments of business-forward which will be expressed in Omaha.

The governors and leading business men of the following eighteen states will be invited to participate, viz: Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

The group meetings will be devoted to the problems of Agriculture, Agricultural Colleges, Automobiles, Bankers, Building and Building Materials, Canning Products, Civic and Public Health, Dairy Products, Farm Press, Farm Power and Implements, Foreign Trade, Grain, Highways, and Good Roads, Insurance, Investments, and Farm Loans, Laxatives, Live Stock, Manufacturing, Milling, Rotary, Water Power and Water-ways, Wool Growers.

BIG SURPRISE TO MANY IN RED CLOUD

People are surprised at the INSTANT action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika ONE SPOONFUL flushes the ENTIRE bowel tract so completely it relieves ANY CASE sour stomach, gas or constipation and prevents appendicitis. The INSTANT, pleasant action of Adler-ika surprises both doctors and patients. It removes foul matter which poisoned your stomach for months.—Chas. L. Cotting.

Record for Divers.

In salvaging the United States submarine P-4, which was sunk off Honolulu in March, 1915, divers went down to a depth of about 200 feet and adjusted chains and cables and directed operations of men at the surface. This is said to have broken all diving records.

To Remove stains.

A thick slice of ripe tomato, if it is laid, placed over an ink spot on white goods will remove the spot, and pearly stains wet with cold water spread thickly with cream of tartar and placed in the sun will disappear.

A Live Wire

Roy C. Wright contributes a soldier letter to the Lebanon Times, which is so unusually interesting as to justify republishing. He says:—

Champagne, France.—Brother and Folks: "Speed" I don't mind being a soldier as long as soldiering is a popular sport, but I draw the line on being the keeper of a zoo. Have them? Lord, have it herds with as many species. That may be a little farfetched, but so are they. English graybacks, American bed bugs, Hindu lice, French Codies, Chinese licees and Australian bug-a-boos. They bite you on the ankle and they bite you on the knee as we go marching. Marching! yes long, short, night, day, up and back over and under. I have rounded France three times trying to find the boundary line of "somewhere."

March! An, that gentle, docile, little fee letter word. How much territory it can cover.

"Speed," mother asks me what I want. I don't want anything, they give you all you want both in degrees of quality and quantity. What do I want? I want back my rightful name for No. 92; my soul economic desire is to tear down two stories of mothers flap-jacks walloped in syrup and hen eggs; I want to see a mule pulling my mule cart; I pushed it; I want to see some dry land; I want to slip my wayworn mud-boots into a pair of shoes which are not spiked with steel bottoms and which can only be put on one way; I want to show mother a new formula for making chicken dumplings out of saw dust; I want to cast my weary body on one of mother's downy cots of feathers (and by the way, feather beds are in bed rooms, are they not?) and tell me gently Harve, if you can do so without too much commotion, do you still eat three square meals a day over there; whether there is such a thing as angel food cakes, etc. or was that only a dream I had when the armistice was signed.

Am I having lots of fun and experience over here? Just enough that I would have called a man a liar had he said I could have gotten in so much in so short a time. If doing your bit in hell here on earth is fun, then I'm having it.

Am I hale and hearty? I have enough strength to dethrone King Hooke and the four sons of Noah. I have steel caps and bottoms with a cast iron stomach and immortal constitution. You wonder what an immortal constitution is? It's that particular germ wherein you learn to speak of people dying, as "popping up the daisies" and "kicking in" with the same conscientiousness that dad employed when he threw Paris Green at potato bugs.

Have I learned anything? I've learned that ham is ham only when you've got it, and that cackle-berries don't grow on stock farms; I've learned that the ethics of man change during war time and that Darwin probably done his bit at some time or other. I've been learned that all good picnics end in rains; that Sir Galahad must of had a problem fit for any lore hunter when he tried to rehabilitate or revolutionize the world. I've learned that being a printer isn't the worst job on earth and well we will tell you about it when I get back, but that jer feller who wrote "Sweet Sweet Home," was a soldier. Some fellow stretches next to me and cries "this is a miserable life," which reminds me that it was Napoleon who wrote, "I'll Miscere."

Did I tell you they sent me to an officers' training school. Yet! they did, thinking I was a fit subject for gun fodder, but I fooled them. I came out on the drill field with two bars of candy; we had a riot and school broke up. The war being over Uncle Sam thought the boys preferred to accept $30 per, rather than $170, seeing that $170 necessitated a little mumble-peg on the front where Fritz celebrated the Fourth with hand bombs. But speaking of the front, I just want to see one more front and that's "maw's" front yard and the only battle I ever want to see is some woman washing clothes without soap, and soldier's clothes at that.

Did I do my bit? Well, if I didn't my pack did. I carried between 60 and 70 pounds until my eyes watered and my nose run, and I wondered why France didn't have humane societies like they have in America. If eating "corn woolley" till you felt like an ox or ass either one, is doing your bit, I done it.

Did I see the front? Ah, I gazed in awe, at that terror stricken land of devastation, where American ginger had already fertilized with German bologna. Did I shoot? Did I? Say if you'd seen me dive into a dugout, you'd a swore somebody shot. And does a man feel scared? Can you imagine how a pickle feels in a vinegar vat? One of those 75's sounds like the old cylinder press, only not quite so loud, and when it lights it always musses up a few pebbles. I never seen one light, but I guess they'll wake a man up.

When do I come home? Well I always had a desire to cross the ocean and it is as strong as ever. Now you tell me when I get home, or when I start. I'd like to know.

Now that the future is past and the past is present, outside of home, I do like my army stew and as Edgar Allen Poe remarked, "I'm off for conquest, woe unto the multitude for they are ten thousand strong."—Roy C. Wright, I. C. S., Co. I, 1st Prov., Tr. Reg., 33rd Division, December 14th
